Good Afternoon

Just some comments from me.

I work for a international mining company. In the remote area where I stay in South Africa there is NO dependable internet service.

I have tried Vodacom / MTN / and various other licensed wireless providers. Starlink will be game changer for South Africa. We need broadband in remote areas. It is also low latency and high capacity overcoming the traditional challenges of VSAT. It works in motion and across the ocean. This is a must for South Africa for rural broadband and remote offices.

Education and medical sectors will benefit tremendously together with private sector.

Regards,

Stefan
